

LeAnn's Ledger

September has come and gone....

As the months fly by here in Kenya, the Lord continues to bless me without fail. It was rainy and cold and much like fall here, and I loved it. It was a blessing because I knew that I was going to miss the changing of the seasons at home. But the Lord sent the rain. We had some cooler days with rain and clouds and it even appeared that some of the leaves were changing color. It was so great and I will forever be thankful to the Lord for that little gift.

Be who God has made you...

The Lord is teaching me so much during my time here. Sometimes I don't know how to put it into words, but I'm going to try. The Lord is teaching me to be myself. There have been so many things that I want to do for the Lord...and there is no lack of ministry opportunities here in Kenya. But what does the Lord want me to do...what is His will for my life? That has been a thought and a prayer that has been ongoing for many years, and I feel like I'm coming closer to what the Lord is trying to tell me. And He is telling me to be myself...be the person I am making you. A teacher of mine at Frontier always said " you will be what you are now becoming". I knew what she meant, but I'm understanding it more and more as each day passes. God is moving me step by step on this journey and I don't know what the end looks like. I don't know how or when I'm going to get to the next place we are going, but I need to be myself all along the way and trust that what He has for me is good. God cares about who we are, He cares about our hearts and who He is making us into. My mission, my ministry, my journey is not going to look like anyone else's...because its mine. God gives us people in our lives to help us through, to learn from each other, and to hopefully learn from others mistakes...but He does not want us to mimic everything about them. God is making me the person He wants me to be...and I need to trust that He knows what He is doing.

Ephesians 2:10 "For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand so that we would walk in them".

This verse has always been one of my favorite. The closer I get to God the more meaning it has for my life. He is creating me every day and He has work for me to do. I need to be who

I'm now becoming, and trust that God is good and what He has for me is the best thing.

THANK YOU....thank you so much for all of your love and encouragement...I feel your prayers. Not too much longer and we will be together again and I look forward to it.
