We recently gave our last mission presentation, and it was very emotional. I can't believe that that stage of this mission has come to a close. In some ways, I wish we could continue to visit new churches and get the word out about the need. But my heart weighs much heavier now than it did before, and we must press on because I hear a calling that rings in my ear.

We have a dynamite team of supporters, so we go forward confidently, knowing our God is ahead of us while also having our backs. On that same note, I send my deepest appreciation to everyone who has made a sacrifice of their time and money to make this possible. May you all be blessed now, as you surely will be in eternity to come.

"How lucky I am to have something that makes saying goodbye so hard." A.A. Milne

Please pray for our kids; they have no idea what they're in for. I realize that S and I are in for some big surprises, but the kids especially need prayer.

We are so very close to 100% of our monthly support, praise God!

Our enemy attacks like guerrilla warfare. Pray that God leads us away from temptation.

We will need prayer for government cooperation. They have mixed emotions concerning Christians.

Pastor U has a vacant apartment for us to stay in for a couple weeks when we first get there. Praise God.
