Familiar faces & places...

Being back in the US when I was not expecting to be, is a strange feeling. My heart was not ready for the change and I don't think there was anything I could have done about it. But the Lord has filled me with His peace in a way only He can. I'm humbled that He is giving me this gift of time to spend with family and friends. I couldn't be more blessed to be with them. God knows what He is doing, His timing and plan are always perfect, and I trust in His will far above my own.

Isaiah 55:8-9

“For My thoughts are not your thoughts, Nor are your ways My ways,” declares the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways and My thoughts than your thoughts”.

BOTTOM LEFT: My mom and I. It's been good being able to love on my mom in person.

BOTTOM RIGHT: My nephew Austin and me. I can't believe how big he is getting. He is 14 years old and towers over me now.

When I first returned from Africa, I spent some time in LaGrange WY at my mission agency home office. It was a blessing to have my own space for a little while so I could transition back into life here. The Lord used that time to refuel me for this next part of the journey. The Lord always knows what we need.

Psalms 107:9

"For He has satisfied the thirsty soul, and the hungry soul He has filled with what is good".

Brad and Ellie and their family came back to the US about a month after I did. It was such a blessing to be together on this side. It was like having a piece of Kenya with me.

We were able to celebrate Easter together where we learned about the Passover with a Seder dinner. How amazing to learn more about all the Lord has done for us.

Hebrews 9:14

"How much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered Himself without blemish to God, cleanse your conscience from dead works to serve the living God".

I'm not sure how long I will be in the US, but while I'm here I would love to see you and share with you all that the Lord is doing. If you or your church is interested, please email me and let me know.

My work permit is in process and they say it can take 3 to 9 months. God's timing is always perfect, so please pray for His will to be done.

Please also pray for the opportunity and desire the Lord has given me to stay in Nairobi when I return to Kenya. Upon returning, I will be finishing language school, taking time to acclimate to the Kenyan life/culture and making connections to teach and disciple women. My plan at this time, Lord willing, is to be doing the same as my brother Brad, only I would be teaching women. Brad is teaching and training pastors and men in the local church to know the word of God and how to teach others. My objective would also be to train the women to see the need and carry on their role as women in the local church by teaching the Word of God and teaching them how to teach other women and children.

The door for me to stay and minister in the Nairobi area is open; all I need to do is to walk through it. There is so much more to the story than what I can fit into this update. If you would like more information, have questions for me or even my Board at TBM, please don't hesitate to ask, email or call.

You have been such a huge part of this journey with me and I want you to feel open and comfortable enough to ask me anything, at any time. I could not do this without you. Thank you for all you have done.

Blessings

LeAnn
