Karibu nyumbani... welcome home...

Thank you so very much for all your prayers and encouragement as I journeyed across the world, making my way home to Kenya. The journey was long, but God is good and faithful and I'm happy to be home. I have been enjoying reconnecting with friends, and meeting new ones, as I settle back into life by the lake. It feels good to be back and to have you with me. I look forward to what the Lord has planned, as we share the love of Jesus here in Kenya pamoja..together.

I have been posting on FB and Instagram, videos and pictures of everyday life. My hope is that it will give you a clear picture of life here in Kenya and some of the things I go through day to day. If we are not friends on those platforms, you can find me at:

The swing of life is so much slower here. I was not expecting to have to readjust to it. Although most days it is a blessing, sometimes it makes life frustrating. Most things take longer than you expect or planned for. This is Kenya, this is my home and it's a privilege to be here.

The Lord is opening doors for new ministry opportunities that I'm really excited about. He is always working and I'm humbled that He has asked me to come along. I will keep you posted as the details get worked out.

Thank you so much for your faithfulness to the Lord in supporting this ministry. I look forward to many more years serving together here in Kenya.

Because of His Grace

Love
