

Prayer Requests

for wisdom & direction with my ministry at TBM; to learn quickly and understand everything Helen is training me on to represent Christ with our social media and show what missions and church planting is about and why TBM does missions and church planting; less stress while I help coordinate content for social media to continue to grow spiritually and follow His will

Previous Month Updates

May was our candidate school, which allowed several bible college students to come see what TBM is all about and the different ministry opportunities we provide. Our board members were there as well to answer any questions these prospective missionaries had. Pray for the Lord to continue to work in their lives and direct them to the ministry He has for them.

June was a very quick trip to Michigan to see supporters and friends that I haven't seen in two years. It was great to see them, but I had a nasty cold the entire time I was there. I didn't get to see all my friends I wanted to see (or go all the places I wanted to go) because I was under the weather, but God is still good. I was so blessed to have time with those I did get to see.

July was a busy month. I helped cook lunch for summer school for a week, and I also started to help coordinate social media content for TBM. Since we were just getting started it was a little crazy to get things organized. Our vision is to help educate more people on the importance of church planting in missions, and to share Christ faithfully while doing so.

August was back to school month. I kept pretty busy with meetings to get ready for the school year, but it was off to a great start. The town of LaGrange felt like it doubled in size with the bible college students back, and fun activities should be just around the corner. TBM will no doubt be hosting Get Cultured nights once again. If you don't remember or are new to my newsletter, let me explain Get Cultured. The bible college usually has a few students from foreign countries, and TBM likes to invite them over to talk about the culture and spiritual needs of their home country. There are snacks involved (of course) and time for fellowship. This is what we call Get Cultured.

Upcoming Events

October will be when we host our Missions Conference. We partner with the bible college and set up discussion groups where students can sit and chat with our missionaries and other missionaries. In October, I will also be traveling to southern Utah to attend a field conference. The Home Office team will be meeting with our missionaries in that area to fellowship with them and encourage them. I haven't been to a field conference before, so I am looking forward to the opportunity to go.

Thank you for your prayers and support.
