

Dear Brothers and Sisters in the Lord,

Here is our latest news.

In the last few days

we were a bit discouraged because of a number of problematic situations.

One of the things that hurt us the most is to see how many people are not at all interested in the Gospel. Several are even displeased when you try to tell them about Jesus. Lately, while visiting an elderly couple with different health problems, the husband was telling me that the one who kept him alive was Pope Woytila (long dead already). After reading some Gospel verses and Jeremiah 17:5, he replied that he did not believe a word I shared.

Brothers this answer really saddened me. In the evening I was grieved about the condition of many Catholics One verse heartened me ("If you do not grow weary you will reap")

The next day, in the afternoon, after asking for the Lord's guidance, I felt a desire prevailed in me to go to a town about 20 minutes from us, Magnacavallo. As a young man I lived there for a few years. When I arrived I looked for an old friend whom I could not find. Later I went to another friend, Aldo. He has a store that looks like a bazaar: newspapers, vegetables, ice cream, in short, a little bit of everything. I was surprised that he was very happy to see me. As customers came he introduced them to me and agreed that I could talk to them about the Gospel and could give out Christian tracts. It was wonderful...I was able to share the Word of God with 7 to 8 people.

Last of all, a young police commander from the local police force wanted to talk to me for quite a while. At the end, he told me that one of these Sundays he'll stop by to attend one of our Sunday services! This experience made me happy!

IF WE DON'T WEARY, WE'LL REAP IN DUE TIME!

A big hug from,

Mirco and Paola

Please see photos below....

In the first two photos, I am with my old friend who owns "the Bazar".

In the second photo we are at a brother's home where we had lunch today. Ciro and Rosa. We were able to witness to their friend Anna, who is on the far right of the photo. She was very open and interested in the Gospel.
