WHAT GOD IS TEACHING ME

I've been more and more overwhelmed by God's grace recently. His grace for salvation, his grace for everyday needs, his grace for opportunities, his grace for when we feel like we weren't prepared for a hard conversation, his grace for when we fall short, his grace for when we go after idols and not him. I think I'd fill this page if I kept going. But grace is a concept that I think God is gently teaching me right now. I will never understand how amazing it truly is. I was recently asked "What's the purpose of life?" To which I responded "To glorify God!" They told me "That seems so unfair, we didn't decide to be here so why is our purpose to glorify him?" I see my answer as grace. I can't quite wrap my head around it but God created us to be in a relationship with him. And because he saved me I GET to bring glory to his name.

CHURCH HAPPENINGS

God's ministry is so exciting to be a part of! I mean, I get to see answers to prayers and people changed for eternity! What's more exciting than that!? Our little community here at Aspen Grove continues to grow both in number and in relationship with God! We pray that our church would be one that God would bless and grow in his timing, and that he would build his church, and answer our prayers abundantly! We are having to figure out how to fit more chairs in our space, what an amazing problem! We also had a really fun youth event this month! It went so well and had a lot of involvement from our church which was an encouragement.

NEW BLESSINGS

I mentioned my new job last month but I must tell you more about it! It has been the source of much joy! God is showing his grace to me yet again in this area. Not only did he provide another job, but one that is more flexible, more gratifying, and pays more so that I can work less hours! I get to hangout with little autistic kiddos, helping implement programs to help develop their social skills, motor function, speech, behaviors and other things. It is literally so fun! It's been a challenge, and as all good work is, tiring! But I pray that you can rejoice with me in this and also for the special opportunity of interacting with another RBT whom I must ask for prayers for. She is searching for God and has so many questions about him, we spoke for hours about Christianity, Mormonism and about what the Bible says. Please pray that God would give me wisdom to communicate truth to her and for a friendship to flourish there.

UP AND COMING

While the wars continue they have not yet called off the Israel trip yet. Please continue to pray for that, and if it's God's will that it will happen. Also pray for me as I have upcoming travel. I will fly home to Michigan for my cousin's wedding in April and have a couple more friends getting married over this summer.

When I moved out here I told everyone 1 to 2 years and we'll see after that. I wanted to develop a realistic perspective of what church planting in Utah looked like. Well, if I've learned one thing while being here for the last 8 months it would be that Church planting takes patience. It takes endurance, lots of prayer, lots of love, and learning to depend on Christ for everything all the time as well. But patience. Pray that God would be leading me as I look into the possibility of staying long term in Utah, pray that he would lead me in his will and that I would continue to grow and live purposefully. Pray for logistics like housing long term, practically needing more support, a roommate, or a spouse. Pray for wisdom and for me to be selfless in these things.

GRATITUDE

As always I appreciate you guys so much! I'm always encouraged when people tell me that they are praying for me. I think the way God designed us to be in community is so awesome! I'm so thankful that God has orchestrated our lives in such a way that you can be involved in His ministry here with me! Thank you so much for praying for me and being a part of my life! God bless!
